Bernardo Danesi is an economist in NERA's Global Transfer Pricing, Intellectual Property, and Valuation Practices, based in London. He advises multinational companies in the context of their intra-group cross-border transactions, assisting them in the implementation of optimal pricing policies. Mr Danesi has been involved in a wide range of transfer pricing cases related to the financial services industry, including fund fee pricing, intercompany financing, and guarantee fee pricing. Furthermore, he has contributed to the delineation of value chain analyses for clients in a variety of sectors, including shipping and logistics, financial services, eyewear, and art auction houses. Mr Danesi has worked on a number of disputes in the context of state aid claims and tax settlements. He graduated from UCL with an MSc in Economics. Mr Danesi also holds a BA from the University of Siena and he spent his third year as an exchange student at the University of Oxford.
