Soren Christian is a Consultant in NERA's Energy Practice in London, working primarily in the energy and electricity industry. Mr. Christian's work covers the economics across the value chain in the electricity and gas sectors in the UK, continental Europe, the Middle East, and Australia.

Mr. Christian provides modelling, analytical, and strategic support, generally in an advisory or advocacy context. His work involves regulation of network industries, energy market design, market modelling, and due diligence. Mr. Christian has experience writing and presenting public-facing regulatory submissions and reports, often with direct impacts on public policy. His work spans industries beyond energy, including the water and gambling sectors in the UK.
